Thanks for paying time to this manuscript. I have read the suggestions carefully and tried my best to modify it. I hope you can feel it having improvement. I have rewritten the introduction section to make the objectives clearly. And for the overall soil properties, I have changed the name to “soil physical and chemical properties comprehensively”. I think you are right that it is not really overall properties. Next, the material and methods parts also be corrected. I think I have describe the method of sampling clearly. And I also described the parameters I selected as physical properties. What’s more, I take a new method to describe the difference between strip
